One of Us	I just fired off a 2nd order of 300 pieces (15 boxes) of the .423 Dakota brass - Lapua manufacture - at under 92¢ each deliv to my doorstep. That gives me 600 pieces (30 boxes) so I'm good to gothat is unless I get a "wild hair" in another few day	ered

	Been kind of busy and couldn't keep up with the thread. I'm interested in one of the pocket drop plates for my lefthand Rug MKII std action. This is in the .395 Max and I just would like one more round down. Do you know of anyone currently making Max

one of us	Max,
	Ruger boxes? Nice for the .395 Ruger Max. Maybe jeffeosso has given this some thought for his excellent 500 AccRel?
	But Winchester rules this thread!
	You do not want a a Ruger short action for a B&M. The box on a Ruger short action WSM is under three inches length, so is Remingtom SAUM.	Э
	The Winchester is over 3" long in the WSM actions, If you are doing a B&M, you MUST use a Winchester!
	Keep looking for that Winchester short action.

	Before I get bombarded with requests for brass, the Hornady hydraulic forming die only replicates fire forming the brass dimensions using compressed water vis-à-vis primer, powder, and something to stopper the case.	to its full
	Oh yesperhaps in comparison to a full length Rigby or Gibbs brass the .423 Dakota-Lapua brass would be conside "short"but as I'm 62yrs old I full recollect that magnum brass measuring 2.4"-2.6" in length was referred to as a "stand magnum" and were typically designed for a 3.4" length magazine. A "short magnum" was that stuff short enough to typi within a 3" length magazine.	lard

	416Tanzan, An 11-pound 500 Mbogo loaded full is about like a 500 AccRel, 500 MDM, or 49-10 rifle of 9 pounds loaded full, in the recc department.	bil
	Full power in either class rifle is punishing, but do-able, portable.
	Shooting a load of the lesser ballistics in the heavier rifle is a joy on the shoulder. I was just trying to prove what the 500 AccRel, 500 MDM, and 49-10 could do, by using the reduced 500 Mbogo load.
	Knocks a cape buffalo for a pretty good loop. 🖼
	OK Jim, your .423 Dakota-Lapua is not a short magnum at 2.480" case length. But it is fatter than the usual standard magnum. Would you settle for "fat mag?" 😔

	Something to remember about Duane is that he's in his 70's and is not a large scale custom rifle production operation. Th the local tax office Duane had to pull Sound Metal Products (his separate bottom metal business) back under his custom making business. Unfortunately all finances are out of Duane's pocket to build and stock the bottom metal parts so he ty has to wait for sufficient business in a "specific new" box or bottom metal before he does a modeling workup to perfect t product. Once an item becomes an inventory product it becomes that balancing act between having a couple on the shell immediate delivery vis-à-vis the financial need to sell "most" of a minimal 10-item batch run to at least cover his costs as:	gun pically he final f for

So my .423 Dakota-Lapua is one step closer to completion.         Why a 3-groove button?? Very simple per my conversation with their technical folk a couple of weeks agothe 3-groove gives just as good accuracy as the 5, 6, 8, 9 groove barrels BUT it results in less throat erosion with overbore cartridges long haulso basically a win-win situation. FYI All: For anyone interested in a 10" twist rate 404 (.423 bore) barrel The barrel button will be staying with Pac-Nor for future sales use You may have to reference Jim Ward from Capistrano Beach, CA to identify the twist rate availability for next few days until it has been integrated into their system. 	Thanks Jim! I am indeed back home and all is well, except for all the crap I am doing and have been doing since Monday afternoon. It's been non stop here since arriving. Trying to catch up, trying to sort real work out, blah blah blah. I am makin progress, not too much off schedule, waking up at 2;30 and 3 am, and hammer down until I get things sorted out! Have no time for anything else.
	I can tell you this, I suppose that North Fork and CEB had a meeting last week, and decided to send boxes on top of boxes bullets and all arrived Monday, and Tuesday, or I don't know if they all arrived, but there is a lot of bullets to sort out. 6 big Priority mail boxes from North Fork, 3 big boxes from CEB, 2 boxes of 500 MDM brass from Horneber (YIPPIE) and I don't eve remember what else. I have not had time to go through anything yet, so you know I am damned swamped and busy if I can look at my bullets eh? Holy Cow! I am working 16-18 hours a day in hopes that soon I can at least open the boxes and see what's in them? Whew!	en n't
	I hope to be caught up with work related things this week, or at least be to a point, never really ever catch up.
	I am pleased to say that travel is not as bad as it was a couple of years ago. I flew Delta, and they were delightful. It's non and scheduled exactly right so there is little jet lag if you play the game right. South Africa Police Service on arrival, great to with, I get permits ahead of time, especially with the B&Ms so that there is zero confusion on arrival. Met by Anne at Hunter Support with permits in hand, I am in and out of there soon as the rifles arrive, check the serials and gone, minutes only. Et process. Customs in Atlanta still a bitch of course, our folks here treat hunters like crap most of the time, and they are ignor crap. Customs guy asked if I had "WEAPONS" with me? I answered No, but I do have two hunting rifles! Told him that weap were for "WAR" and I had my "Weapons" at home, but was traveling with my Hunting Rifles. Ass Wipe Rolled his eyes up at and I just told him to get his terminology correct next time! F*&K*&G ass wipes! Now what do you reckon Customs ever fin when checking hunters coming into the USA, with their hunting Rifles? Weapons smugglers you reckon? I estimate they hav NEVER ONCE EVER found a "Weapons Smuggler" amongst the hunters coming throughJust BS to aggravate the shit out o and then to just hold us up is all. I really get aggravated with our customs guys, and Atlanta seems to have all the pricks gathered in one spot. Washington and some others are not too bad. But it is what it is!	work rs asy rant as oons : me, ds /e

(Å)	Man, OK, I could not stand it any longer! I busted open all the North Fork USPS boxes and unpacked something like 2500 n North Fork .474 caliber bullets and 500 new .500 450 gr Bonded bullets for the 50 B&M Alaskan! WOW	ew
MF.	.474 caliber 375 gr FPS and CPS for the new 475 B&M Super Short! Yes, I am thinking buffalo with these for sure! I bet the penetration is there, with the new CPS "EXPANDING" CPS!!!!!!
	.474 caliber 425 gr FPS and CPS and with ZERO doubt in my mind fine buffalo bullets for the 475 B&M!
	.474 caliber 425 gr Bonded Premium Bullet! Yep, you heard me correct, a pointy thing it looks great! Somewhat reluctant to speak of these as I really don't remember working on this with North Fork, maybe they made a mistake? Anyway, I have them in my hands, and they cannot have them back!
	No time for photos of these beauties yet, but will try and get some the next day or so for you to see! Finally .474 caliber has become versatile with a better selection of bullets! These North Forks combined with the new CEB BBW #13s, well, I can't see a reason for anything else myself!

2000	Welcome home, Michael. Glad you're back so that you can send me those 480gr458 bullets. We are excited to use them in Lott rifles - RSM & Dakota - for September Elephants. We believe this may be the best of both worlds - 450 v. 500gr for us the Lott. Your work is amazing.

	Best,
	Thanks Mike! Glad to be here, I think? Work has been somewhat aggravating, and interfering with really important things, how actual work does pay the bills! SO	vever,
I	Anyway, I found one box of 480s on the shelf, they are on the way, but first I need to open the CEB boxes to make sure I did nave another run made of those, and they are in there. Either way, regardless, I will make sure you have plenty of these bulle do what you need to do! No worries.
i I S	also think the 480 is dandy, and best of both in between 450 and 500 especially in the larger capacity 458s, like the Lott's. T also do extremely well in my 458 B&M, limited capacity like the 458 Winchester. I am running these at 2165 fps in the 18 inch 4 3&M, and they do very well in the straight line, deep penetration department. I took some with me to use on buffalo as second shots, but damn, I never got to them, and used the 450. I had a very ambitious test schedule, and I was not able to get to everything I wanted to do!	58
1	Max, I need to still load some dummies for you, and will get that done, asap. I found a few Win M70 leftys over on gunbroker, Haven guns. Go check those out first, personally I would much rather see you do that and not be limited. I think there is maga ssues with what you want to do.
-	Thanks Phats!
i a	Well let me see if I can entertain you chaps just a little bit. I will get some more photos up the next day or so of the bullets recovered from critters, and some of these new .474s and .500s. But I did manage to unpack the North Fork boxes and try and a place to put them! I am loosing the battle on having enough shelf space for all the bullets! HEH Hell, I will stack them to th reiling if I have to! Can't have too many bullets I reckon!
